There are few places in the country as reliable for warm, sunny weather and beautiful beaches as San Diego. The country's eighth largest city has long been popular for family attractions like the San Diego Zoo, Legoland and SeaWorld, plus great fish tacos, but in the last few years this relaxed, Southern California destination has become a lot more hip. Tony classics like the chef's tasting menu at George's at the Cove or red velvet baked Alaska plus killer city views at Mister A's will never get old, but here are five reasons to visit San Diego now. And if you're really craving tacos, Lola 55 is the best new place to get 'em.
